

What is the Alzheimer's Association's Information Helpline?

The Information Helpline is a 1-800 phone line that is staffed 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to answer any questions about memory problems, services and community resources for persons with dementia, their families or care partners. Interpreters are available through the language line in more than 120 languages.

Call the Information Helpline for the following and more:

- Information and referral to area resources
- Information regarding:
 - Alzheimer's disease and related dementias including stages of the disease process, treatment options, and how to get a diagnosis
 - Signs and symptoms of dementia
 - Book, Brochure and Video Resources
 - And More...
- Family, professional and community education offerings
- Care partner support including Care Consultations with individuals or families
- Support group listings and information

How Can I Reach the Information Helpline?

Call 1-800-272-3900 anytime 24/7

The Alzheimer's Association is the leading voluntary health organization in Alzheimer care, support and research.

Updated December 2007